

Uncommon Notions

America may not be the birthplace of humor I am told that distinction belongs to the people that invented the cuckoo clock, when they weren't taking everything else so seriously however, America is filled with uncommon people and a lot of them are sharing their own uncommon notions. You won't have to venture far to hear a few of my Uncommon Notions like a man in Kansas that for some reason believes his wife is a vampire simply because his money keeps disappearing right after payday. You'll spend a few moments in a looney bin with a not-so-common lunatic who has started every major war since WWI from his wheelchair. You'll find out why so very few people from Iowa ever go golfing at Grey Wells, Scotland, and find Easter Island without leaving Cleveland. On and on you'll go, on adventure after adventure, in some very uncommon notions.
